Dear Customer:

I have a group of Cattleya percivalliana and Cattleya trianae for blooms this winter. All of the plants have a consistent blooming record. Most of them are in 5", 6", and 7" pots and the plants are particularly fine. They are going to be offered in the September issue of the Flower Grower, but I feel that I should give my customers first opportunity to purchase them. The Cattleya percivalliana, single-lead plants are $7.50, double-lead plants $9.00. The Cattleya trianae, single-lead plants are $8.50, double-lead $10.00. Even though you already have one or more of these species, you should have one of each of this group because they are such nice plants.

Terms are cash with order and shipment will be made by Express collect unless otherwise requested.

Very cordially yours,

Margaret Ilgenfritz
